Plaster City will be heating up in March...thanks in part to the first running of the Race-Dezert.com 250 on March 20th and 21st. The Race-Dezert 250 will be the second race of the 2009 DRIVE Off-Road Racing series.

After the resounding success of DRIVE's first ever race the TROPHYRITE 200 on Jan 17th, we are very proud to introduce the Race-Dezert.com 250 desert race. Race-Dezert.com is the leading online news and discussion resource for the hardcore desert racer and desert racing fan. "We are very excited about Race-Dezert.com being a race sponsor and supporting the desert racing community," explained DRIVE president Doug Wasser. The Race-Dezert.com 250 will be held in the Plaster City OHV area, home to some of the roughest desert terrain in the Southwest. Completing this race will be a constant battle of man and machine vs. the desert terrain. Drivers will have to constantly balance speed with control and "knowing when to lift" (off the accelerator). All standard desert racing classes will be invited, as well as the recently added UTVs and Off-Road Karts. The Race-Dezert.com 250 will consist of two days of racing excitement! Qualifying for selected classes will be on March 20th. The main event will start Saturday, March 21st at 8 am. For more information as it becomes available, see www.drive-racing.com and www.race-dezert.com .

The next DRIVE Off-Road Racing event is the Race-Dezert.com 250 on March 21st 2009 in Plaster city. All classes are invited. For more details visit www.drive-racing.com and for up to the minute DRIVE info...visit www.race-dezert.com. Look for the DRIVE discussion forum. See you at the next race!

DRIVE Off-Road Racing holds a 6 race series in Plaster City, 30 minutes west of sunny El Centro, CA and 1.5 hours east of San Diego, CA . DRIVE's mantra is to provide a safe, fun, fair, and affordable grass-roots desert racing experience for the desert racers in the Southwest.
